DOWN HOME NORTH CAROLINA

Johnnie Jones
North Carolina House District 83

BIOGRAPHY/ACCOMPLISHMENTS:

Bio:
Johnnie Jones is a retired film and motorsports professional, husband, father, and grandfather from Rowan and Cabarrus Counties. After retiring five years ago to care for his family, Johnnie is now stepping into public service to fight for his community. He describes himself as a hardworking, family-focused person who is ready to take on the challenges facing North Carolina families.

Why he's running:
Johnnie is running for NC House District 83 because he believes families are paying more while getting less, and they deserve leaders who will put their needs first. He wants to protect public schools, address rising costs, hold corporations accountable, and make sure decisions in Raleigh do not create additional hardships for working families.

Affordability & Economy:	• Fight policies that make life harder for working families and focus on solutions to the rising cost of living.
Public Education:	• Protect public schools from funding cuts caused by private school vouchers and ensure classrooms have the resources they need.
Responsible Growth & AI Data Centers:	• Review the impact of large data centers on water, land, energy costs, and local communities before allowing further expansion.
Standing up to Corporate Interest:	• Make sure corporations and large industries aren't receiving benefits at the expense of taxpayers and everyday North Carolinians.
Public Safety:	• Invest in effective policing, mental health crisis response, prevention programs, and accountability.
Democracy & Accountability:	• Protect voting rights, limit government overreach, increase transparency, and reduce special-interest influence.
Women's Healthcare:	• Protect reproductive healthcare decisions and keep government out of personal medical decisions.
Immigration & National Security:	• Support secure borders, legal immigration pathways, modernized military capabilities, and strong support for veterans.
